How to draw cartoon cat creepypasta

If you've been on Instagram or Tumblr, you may have heard about Trevor Henderson. For those of you who don't know, Henderson is a freelance illustrator and comic bookmaker, known for creating bone-chilling content, such as the infamous Siren Head, and the peculiar Long Horse. However, another one of his creations, Cartoon Cat, has been surging in popularity lately. It all goes back to August 4, 2018, when Trevor posted this photo on his social media. It shows an anthropomorphic cartoon-like figure crouching behind a doorway in what appears to be an abandoned building of some sort. The caption reads: "They're like your favorite cartoon in the weeks that follow, three more images will be uploaded to Trevor's instagram and Tumblr. Each impression becomes slightly more different than the rest. The tenth August image shows a full presentation of the figure in what is said to be an abandoned shopping mall. The entity seems to be at least a few feet tall, has huge cartoon-like eyes, an expansive sight-to-genius smile, and with white gloves that are rolled up fingers. Five days later, the following image was uploaded. Here we can see the head of the figure protruding out of his body like a snake, it's eye sockets are empty, almost as if his head is like a giant mask. On August twenty-second, the last image is posted, with nothing new, other than it is observed with an oblique attitude outside what appears to be another abandoned building. From taking an extended look at the first four images, that cat creature, who will become known as Cartoon Cat later, doesn't seem to be all that threatening. Yes, the considerable size and cartoonish features can look unnerving, but nothing in the pictures proves that it has sinister properties. There seems to be inspiration from Felix the Cat, a comic book character from the silent film era of the early 1900s. Even the captions in the last photo, That's all folks, takes a nod to the end of the most famous 1930s cartoon series, Loony Toons. However, there is a big difference between a friendly looking cartoon cat on TV, and this friendly looking cartoon cat in real life. On September twenty-sixth, Trevor posted yet another image of this creature. However, this time it didn't look so inviting. In this image, the creature is perched in a dark room staring directly at the camera, with a rotting yellow smile. This is a great contrast to how it is depicted from the first four images. On October 1, a final image of Cartoon Cat was uploaded to Trevor's Tumblr titled, Cartoon Cat Fact Sheet. This fact sheet shows the entity grabbing its hands forward with bloody snarling teeth, and sinister looking features. The fact sheet has been redacted on where all the facts should be. After taking look, I can say a few theories about what they are meant to be. The first seems to say, Often found in the empty left blank. Blank, connects to the images of one being spotted around empty looking structures. The second looks to say something along the lines of somewhere from 1939. Again, a nod to Felix the Cat and Loony Tunes. And the third seems to spell, incredibly cruel. However, the most unnerving part of this post, is the caption below. It states the following: "Cartoon Cat is the most (DATA EXPUNGED) of all (DATA EXPUNGED)!" Going by what we know of Cartoon Cat, it might be safe to say that this caption originally said something along the lines of, Cartoon Cat is the most monstrous of all cartoon characters. Or in a worse case, it might be even more gruesome than all of Henderson's creations, including Siren Head. That was the last time Trevor Henderson posted about Cartoon Cat for a while. On June 6, 2019, about eight months after the last post, Henderson posted another image. This time depicting the cat at nightfall, a walk to the observer with his arms wide open. The most interesting part of this post is the caption. It just says: Repetitions. Like a cartoon series on TV, characters usually develop over time. At first, a character can be bad, but ultimately good. In this case, Cartoon Cat started looking friendly, but then it became evil as his own season went on. Now here we are, Cartoon Cat has been re-portrayed to be big, sweet and somewhat welcoming. It is the first moments of August 2018. Will we see it become deadlier and more hostile in the future, and then repeat it again? Only time can tell. A small part of the city extends to Greene County. The 2018 U.S. Census estimate put the city's population at 140,640, while Greater Dayton was estimated at 803,416 residents. This makes Dayton the fourth largest metropolitan area in Ohio and 63rd in the United States Dayton is within Ohio's Miami Valley region, just north of Greater Cincinnati. Ohio's borders are within 500 miles of about 60 percent of the country's population and manufacturing infrastructure, making the Dayton area a logistical centroid for manufacturers, suppliers and shippers. Dayton also organizes important research and development in areas such as industrial, aerospace and aeronautic engineering that have led to many technological innovations. Much of this innovation is partly due to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and its place in the community. With the decline in heavy production, Dayton's companies have diversified into a service economy covering insurance and legal sectors as well as health care and the sectors. Along with defense and aerospace, health care accounts for much of the Dayton area's economy. Hospitals in the Greater Dayton region have a combined employment of nearly 32,000 and an annual economic impact of $6.8 billion. It is estimated that Premier Health Partners, a hospital network, contributes more than $2 billion a year to the region through operational, employment, and capital expenditures. In 2011, HealthGrades rated Dayton by HealthGrades as the #3 city in the country for health excellence. Dayton is also known for its association with aviation; the city is home to the National Museum of the United States Air Force and is the birthplace of Orville Wright. Other celebrities born in the city include poet Paul Laurence Dunbar and entrepreneur John H. Patterson. Dayton is also known for its many patents, inventions and inventors, especially the Wright brothers' invention of powered flight. In 2007, Dayton was among the top 100 cities in America. In 2008, 2009, and 2010, Site Selection magazine ranked Dayton the #1 medium-sized metropolitan area in the nation for economic development. Also in 2010, Dayton was named one of the best places in the United States for graduates to find a job. On Memorial Day 2019, Dayton was hit by a tornado outbreak, with a total of 15 tornadoes making land in the Dayton area. One was a half mile wide EF4 that tore through the heart of the city causing damage. We went there to spend our summer holidays at our grandparents' house, knowing that Grandpa used to be an animator back in the 1950s. There was a wild creature. Well, what sounded like a wild creature in the distance. We can hear growling growling and spitting echoing the walls of the halls as we tried to prevent what was haunting us. As we ran up the stairs to the second floor, I saw what appeared to be a humanoid figure in a black hooded jacket, black sweatpants and a Slipknot T-shirt. What made it all gruesome was the fact that his hoodie was up, and he was wearing a Felix the Cat mask as a machete was tightly grabbed in his right fist. What made me even more petrified was that his skin was white as snow, possibly due to being in the mines for years. Oh, shit! I screamed out of fear. Jason, Jason run! Jason saw what I was looking at and he was hysterical. We shot through the hallways, jumped over barrels and hid in numerous places, until that masked man kept chasing us like a wild animal. We quickly got lost and found ourselves in the turbine chamber, and this is where our spines turned into jelly. In the corner of the room was black handwriting that said as follows... The spirit of the Lord will rest upon him: a spirit of wisdom and understanding, a spirit of counsel and strength, a spirit of knowledge and fear of the Lord, and His joy will be the lord's fear. - Isaiah 11:1-3 Our knees began to nod when we came to the shocking conclusion that this was Tommy's handwriting... My jaw was agape and my eyes the size of cake pans, I fell to my knees and knelt there for what felt like hours. I didn't know it would have been hours when I stared at the writing on the wall, because my legs fell asleep. My legs were completely numb as I tried to get up but had trouble walking, so I limped to the door of the turbine room and head out to sit in the hall and clap my legs back to consciousness. Luckily the masked lunatic was off the site, and Jason during the hours was texting to our parents, to tell about what we found and encountered. How we got to Wi-Fi here was a mystery! I don't know. Know, anyone can solve it. Harry, we have to go now. Jason said. After my legs were fully conscious, I got up and said, OKAY, let's go. When we went out of the hallways and went back to the big room, we were more than ready to get out of this hell. That is, until we were stopped dead in our tracks as the sounds of giggling and laughing from children rang in our ears. We didn't dare look back until our eyes turned to each other. What was that...? Jason asked quietly. I said nothing, we both slowly moved our heads over our shoulders to see, out of the darkness, groups of children ran towards us, from six to seventeen years old. They came from every area of the mine, hell they were even scaling around the walls and ceiling like humanoid lizards! How they could do that, I have no ideal if you've seen the scene from Willow, where the sasquatch-looking trolls were crawling around the fortress walls to the main character, it was so, but with small children! And they all have the same white skin as the masked man who chased us as an escaped asylum seeker. And what baffled us was that some of the pale children were not only white, but also seemed to be African-American, Hispanic, Asian and even Indian. Then we discovered the reason for their complexion as we shone our flashlights on them, causing them to recede and sels like cats or snakes. We gasped when we saw that they were colorless, monochrome of all existence of any kind, and they were to go, or who it tells them to kill. Just like in Marble Hornets, where Tim and that hooded man are Slenderman's Proxies. But, that was the work of fiction, and this is reality... could be the two possibilities... related, in a way? I mean, think about it, this is starting to get Be. In some Stephen King area, with that thing like Pennywise and the town of Derry, Ohio, which is Derry, Maine! But, what me and my big brother said that night was worse than Pennywise, even scarier than Pennywise. We have now revealed that it's motives to watch every viewer watch our video; it wouldn't be active around the day, let it be so-called, henchmen, do all the work. But around the night, which is when its most active, lure the children from their homes and make them believe that it is their imaginary friend, until, when the coast clears it, it will reveal itself to them, and take them to purgatory, there, it will stalk them for all eternity... or just kill them off. When it wants to be more manipulative, it will let the children follow him to his hellish abode, and when they are inside... They'll never be heard from again. There are even accounts I've created where the creature hides and eats the kids, allowing their skin to dry off under the boiling sun. We don't know where it came from, or what it's up to, but we're not going to let it child's coffin rest on our minds. Before we finished the video, I said this in memory of Tommy Harley... Wherever this thing is, we're going to blow that bastard back to the Pit of Hell, and by God, we're not going to rest until it's right and dead. And Mr. and Mrs. Harley, if you look at this... We're going to get your son back, either way, you're sure that whatever happened to your son, it's not going to happen to us. This is for you Tommy, this is all for you... U...
